

Expression of one thing in constitution is necessarily exclusion of things not expressed, and this is especially true of constitutional provisions declaratory in their nature.

Page v. Allen, 98 1, 272.

Section two of the Act reads: That any person who, under color of any law,
statute,
ordinance,
regulation or
custom,
shall subject,
or cause to be subjected,
any inhabitant

Powers denied are not to be implied; they are to be obtained, if at all, from and in the same manner provided by, those who originally granted the enumerated powers, but who at the same time denied powers.
